Elephant trumpling to us.
On the Katala Road.

Carrying his Ropes

Another day we visited a large tea plantation and factory. They showed us the machinery by which the green leaf having first been wilted is rolled then lifted to get only the finest leaves, then re-rolled then fired in an oven, again lifted and finally packed.

We also saw the rubber, first in liquid form as it runs out of the tree, then in a bowl where it is coagulated with acid after which it is put through a series of rollers and at last turned out in long thin strips in which form it is sold to the manufacturers.

Every morning Arthur & I starting out about half past seven used to take long walks over the hills
